Naruto, Masashi Kishimoto

Arnold D'Cruz

Over the past few months, I have been reading Naruto. It is a Manga series written by Masashi Kishimoto. It follows a boy named Naruto, who is hated by everyone in his village because inside him is Nine-Tails, a fox demon that attacked the village many years ago. In order to overcome the hatred, Naruto wants to become the greatest Shinobi to have ever lived, and the leader of his village, a Hokage.

I like this series because everything is tied together. All the side stories and the main story are given closure, and all the characters are given lots of development. Every character you've met throughout the series comes back to do their part at the end, and you get to see just how much they've changed because of Naruto.

If you are new to Mangas or want to start reading them, I would recommend Naruto to be the first Manga series you read.
